SHINING THROUGH

Who would have thought the world would change so much from the time we first walked through the doors of Quincy High School until today? Through all these times the unique qualities of the class of 2003 have come shining through.

This class has accomplished many feats throughout our years here. We have shown dedication to our school and community, through the people who have performed such services as painting murals in the school and taking on a variety of tasks around the city. The class of 2003 has come together to create a safe environment. Responsibility is one of our strong qualities, exemplified by those students who came to school a day early and helped the freshmen find their way around. Our class has broken records in sports. We have the highest high jumper, the strongest shotputters, and a first place team in tennis. Our teams have accomplished more in the four years we were here than many previous graduating classes.

We have set higher standards for the years to come. We have paved the way for the next stars to come shining through. And now, like comets arcing through the sky toward other galaxies, we look forward to further adventures as we move on.

Washington Morisset came shining through for the class of 2003, setting the new school record for the high jump.

DARE TO SOAR

The eagle soars on the wind, majestic, powerful, free. With each day it rises to new challenges and dares the impossible. Likewise your time has come to soar, to rise to new heights, to dare to achieve and to provide for our community. You spent four incredible years at our school. You've been challenged to check your attitude, to work together, to value respect and responsibility and to pursue your maximum potential. It is time for you to soar, to pursue great works, to attempt the impossible and to achieve greatness.

Class of 2003, We Are Proud of You!

★ THE UNDERCLASSMEN ★

No matter what you do...

when you're a freshman...

Twinkle, twinkle, little freshmen

There we were walking through the doors of Quincy High School for the first time. Some of us were nervous, some of us were intimidated, but for the most part we were ready! We were the last class to enter high school before the new millenium. We were the class of 2003, but 2003 was light years away, or so we thought. We adjusted to our new surroundings, fumbled over the words to March Down the Field and struggled to find our place. We had always heard that high school would be the best four years of our life...we had no idea just how true that prediction would turn out to be.

you're always like the baby in the family.

SCINTILLATING SOPHOMORES

Sophomore year came and we were set! We knew the ropes. We had figured out that high school was a little different from the movies. We weren't the new kids anymore. As the class of 2003, we were the first that had to pass the MCAS as a requirement for graduation. We didn't just take the MCAS, we beat it.

SHINE ON, JUNIORS

It was only a few days into our Junior year and then it happened. On September 11th, 2001, the world and our lives were changed forever. Things were different. No longer could we take our safety for granted. Many things were lost on September 11th, but we never lost hope.

Life went on, we went back on the playing field, back on the stage.

We looked at colleges and took our SAT's. Whether we wanted to or not, we grew up. Time was slipping by. Now it was our turn to become Quincy High School's shining stars.

SENIOR MESSAGES AND STELLAR PERFORMANCES

Rami Ahmed Abusoufeh

I'm writing for you Q.H.S, with sadness in my heart and I don't know how to start and where to start from. Thanks to my father and my mother for everything they have done for me during my life. Thank you Mr. Keuther, Professor Thanh T. Mguyen, Ms. Snell, Ms. Martin, Ms. Creedon, Mr. Long, and Dr. Khaled, for everything you have done for me. Thanks to everybody who works for Q.H.S. I'm telling you, teachers, that the day is coming when you will teach my kids. Please teach them as well as you taught me, and tell them how good their father was.

Clyde Agolli

School's finally over, had some great times in QHS. Thanks to all my teachers, and a shout to all my friends. Peace.

"If you're on a porch in the middle of Summer, under night-sky rich in stars and vague nebulae, an you have your head thrown back for a good view of everything up there, you are bound to remember a lot of things"- Jack Keroac. Heres to remembering. Heres to memories. To my friends, the hippies and the hipsters. To the psuedo and not so psuedo intellectuals. To body building midgets with small hands--A.C-- and spacecadets--S.A. To Mr.Cassidy--A.S-- for ur comradery. To the Holdens and the Billy Pilgrims. To the churchies(F.O-B.M-E.H-K.M.) schoolies and coolies. Heres to under achieving for no good reason. To those that helped me try to take over the world each afternoon in junior year(J.M.--P.A.--S.C.--P.M.) Heres to my dear friend J. Music--J.M--for laughter and loyal inconsistency. To H.A. my damnsel not quite in distress. Thanks for competing. Thanks for caring even when I was to busy being uncool. To my best friend--B.M.-- for your unweilding strength. It is you I have admired all these years. Heres to the heroes dwelling in their lair the english department (SM--WH--ME--DJ) you've made a difference to me. Most importantly to my baby sister/friend and family for their undying love and support. To all these immortals and the times a toast to holiness, happiness, and beatific peace of mind. Thank you. "Yes, sir, that was back there in those good golden days...hush..hush..wush..hush..hush..wush.. shhhhhh..here I am on my porch, remembering"- Jack Keroac

I guess it's true: the years do fly by before you know it. But it's been fun, and it will only get better. Titi, en, and Courtney- I couldn't ask for better friends. I can't wait until our kids grow up together. Fellow noo-moo: In the past 13 years, I've loved and hated you... I have yet to decide how I feel about you now. But every time you go away, take a piece of meat with you, okay? My-ha: The things we've done have been very interesting. Don't you worry- we'll end up related in some way in the future. Minority: It was delightful having you as a unique addition to our mob." Maybe, just maybe, I'll let you ride in my car one day... To all of the teachers and administration, friends, and family (basically everyone in my life) who helped me to become who I am today, thank you SO MUCH! Jen G.: You gave me a new meaning to Valentine's Day. And finally, John- you made my last two and a half years here truly memorable. I'll love you...forever. For everyone- don't ever forget to stay true to yourself, and good luck with everything that you do. MUAH!

My list of high school memories were as long as the Nile, so I summed them all up in this little freestyle. I'm the N-G-O-L-E-L to the A. By now you should all say & spell it the right way. I wanna say WatUp to my crew at QHS. You know who you are & I think y'all are the best! I wanna give a holla to my NQ friends. When we're all together you know the party never ends! To the Dance Team, I luv you guys 5! 6! 7! 8! Old & new members it's been fun & Mrs. Merrill you're great! Games, dances, rallies, and parties...they've been fun with all my boyEEz and girlies. Thanx Mommy, Daddy, and my fam for being there. Without all you guys I really wouldn't be here. To all my teachers, aren't you proud, I never had to go to the dean. Many of you were funny & nice, while a few were just plain mean. You think you know, but you have no idea. High school was a breeze to me and I proceeded with no fear. How we all end up? I can't wait to see! But, it's all over, so now I gotta run. It's been real...it's been fun...but not always real fun. :)

Maryann S. Kawalansky (Ann-Marie)

Everyone thought I wasn't going to make it to the 12th grade. With a little self-confidence and help from friends and family look at this I made it. Thank You Mom, Dad, my other Dad Rick, Aunts, Uncles, and all my friends. I love you all 4224 and thank you!

The time passed so fast I've already finished my three years high school life. firstly I have to thank my teachers. They aren't only taught knowledge, but also encouraged me a lot. Secondly, I thank my friends. They helped me in many ways. I had deep impress in my high school. Good luck to everyone in college!

Bi Yun Zeng (Kimberly)

Time passes very fast. Now, I am a senior of High School. Through those years, I can make it. I have to thanks all of my teachers, specially is Mrs. Flaherty and Miss McCorry. I can't make it without my mom's and my friends' help. In this message, I have to thanks a person who always supports me and gives me a happy life, who is my step-mother. Good luck to the class of 2003!

Dance, dance, dance

Clapping, stomping, fast beats, and a boatload of fun—you hear it all when you walk by the cafeteria, but you wouldn't think that the same people who serve us our lunch are also partying after everyone leaves. Then what's with all the noise? It's the Dance Team, of course! Meeting after school, at various times during the week, the Quincy High School Dance Team, led and choreographed by Senior Ngolela Kabongo, brings together girls and boys from all different places to join in steps and dance. Try-outs are held, but in the end it all comes down to stepping to the beat, shaking with the rhythm, and doing it with style. You can always expect to find the Dance Team performing at each of the rallies, the Sold Out Show, and the Cultural Show, but each time it's always a great surprise to see what students can think of next.

Come hear the band

When you walk near the Math Department mornings before school starts, you can hear the loud, jubilant playing of Quincy High School's Band. From Pep Rallies to the Veterans and Christmas Parades, and from the Turkey Day Game to Graduation, the band can always be relied on to provide the music and set the tone for the occasion. Also, the Quincy High School band oftentimes plays alongside North Quincy's band, like at the performance during the half time show of the Turkey Day Game.

HYPERactivity

Come one, come all to the Center for Technical Education's Robotics area as we enter our ninth year of competition in the organization known as FIRST. Team HYPER, comprised of students, teachers, parents, engineers, machinists and the like, unites people from Quincy High School, North Quincy High School, and the Gillette Company through introduction to the fun of engineering and robotics. The season begins in the fall as team members help out with the Christmas Parade and set up for the game to begin. After January's kick kff, the next six weeks are filled with long hours at the CTE as members work to build a game playing robot that is to be submitted to FIRST. Regional and national competitions, for the first time this year in New Hampshire and Texas, respectively, ensue in the spring time. Victory is only a matter of time for Team HYPER, with its impressive history of two regional championships in a row for the past two years. Interested? Please join! Our team grows bigger and better each year as students from all ages, grades, and circles come to help out with engineering, electrical work, public relations, web page design, computer animated drawing, computer animation, fundraising, and pride. "The things you do on the team go beyond robotics and technology. The people I've met, the things I've learned, and the experiences I've gained will be with me for the rest of my life. Robotics is awesome and I can't imagine my four years at QHS without it," shares Jennifer Tan, veteran Robotics team member.

Service and discipline

The Air Force Junior Reserve Officers Training Corp is a program that encompasses many aspects of leadership. In class, students learn about the government and the history of the United States in relation to aerospace science. Outside, however, cadets are pushed and tested mentally, physically, and personally in many different ways. In the drill league, cadets are tested in drill commands and appearance. They are taught to take pride in representing themselves and their corps through their manner and appearance. Working hard to be able to follow commands and regulations instills self-discipline. In addition to learning to drill and march, cadets participate greatly within the community. Throughout the year, cadets sign up to help others. This corps has collected over 150 toys for Toys for Tots, over 700 cans for Father Bill's Place, and finances to fund field trips and outings for cadets. Cadets can be found standing guard during First Night Quincy, visiting the elderly at the Veteran's Memorial Hospital, and ensuring that little children receive their toys from Santa at Santa's Parachute Dropping. AFJROTC works hand in hand with Quincy High School, helping present arms at all functions and occasions and providing help during the Open House nights. Are you interested in being involved and making a difference? Come down to Room 10!

From many, one

The loud chattering of students can be heard from Room 203 after school on a Thursday afternoon. But what is being said? The chattering and the talking sounds unfamiliar, perhaps even incomprehensible. Suddenly, someone starts to speak in English and slowly afterwards you realize what is happening: the International Club is meeting.

The International Club is quite paradoxical in that students come together from all different places, cultures, and worlds in order to celebrate the very things that make them each different and unique.

Everyone with an open mind and an interest in the cultural world outside is welcome to join the International Club. Students participate in the Cultural Fair and the Cultural Show annually.

DOCENTS

Docents are teachers

Under the guidance of Mrs. Day, Quincy and North Quincy High students travel to the Museum of Fine Art in Boston over the course of a couple of months in order to study aspects of a certain display. This year, students were able to work with the Classical European art. In the past, students have had a chance to study Asian art.

After the preliminary visits to look at displays and learn about the history of the certain pieces and works, students produce a presentation about their chosen piece. Finally, the peers and classmates of the newly formed docents come for an informational tour of the entire exhibit, guided completely by the docents.

Mathematics: the Soloflex of the Mind

It can be proven that there are exactly three integral values of x for which $4^x + 4^{1993} + 4^{1996}$ is a perfect square (the square of an integer). What are these three values of x ?

This is a typical contest problem from the New England Mathematics Competition (NEML). Quincy High School's top mathematics students in the Math Club tackle such problems every week as they prepare to compete in six thirty-minute contests. (By the way, this one killed us! Can you get it?)

MATH CLUB AND OFFICE ASSISTANTS

The mind of a great mathematician is like the body of a great athlete: strong, supple, swift, and graceful. Just as an athlete must train rigorously, the best mathematicians work out regularly, taking on puzzles, mind-benders and even those most dreaded word problems! This year, Quincy High School's top mathematicians are Bao Truong and Samantha Lu.

Quincy High School's Math Club is part of Mu Alpha Theta, the National Honor Society for high school math clubs. Together we enjoy and celebrate our love of math, whether it's in sharing problems, taking a field trip to Boston University or to the Science Museum or working together to make a starry dodecahedron lantern. We always welcome new members, so if you want to know what's fun about math, come join us--we'll show you!

Would you choose to stuff envelopes or to finish your calculus homework during study? Well, for the office assistants, this choice was simple. This group of students give up their study periods to help out in the main office.

Highlights of the High School

The Video Club consists of students from the communication technology class who meet after school to tape activities, sporting events, performances, and shows. Taking the highlights of these events, the club creates short clips that appear on the morning announcements. The highlights are not only attention-grabbers to the often still-sleeping homeroom students, but also make students aware of what goes on at Quincy High School after the 2:30 bell rings.

MORNING ANNOUNCEMENTS AND VIDEO CLUB

Getting Ready For the Day

Each day, the capable students of the communication technology class and several dedicated readers broadcast the morning announcements. These broadcasts are aired in every homeroom in the school as well as on Quincy's local access television station, channel 22. In its second year, the announcements are getting better and better.

Possessing the four qualities

Four qualities describe NHS members. Character, scholarship, leadership and service are what being in the National Honor Society is all about. Members of the NHS possess these qualities and apply them to helping the school and the community. Throughout the year the NHS sponsors fundraisers and community service programs. This fall and winter, the NHS took part in a car wash, sold snacks, and helped students with homework. With many other projects planned for the spring, the NHS is looking forward to a successful year.

Mardi Gras

Every Wednesday morning the Prom Committee meets in order to plan the prom for that year. Last year the Prom Committee started with planning the Junior Prom. They decided on the theme of Mardi Gras. Every week the committee put in a great deal of time and effort to make the Junior Prom the best ever. Important decisions were made on every little detail that goes into having a Prom. While everyone was getting ready for the Prom, the committee was setting up the hall and making sure this would be a night to remember.

Leading by Example

What does the Q-Team do besides gaurd fire alarms? More than you think! The Q-Team consits of a group of enthusiastic students who either attend the Summer Leadership Camp or are in Student Council or the Heritage Program. Members set an example for others by striving for excellence not only in the classroom, but on the field, court, ice, or stage. Some of the High School's best leaders are Q-Team members, and this organization embodies the spirit of Quncy High School pride.

Q-TEAM AND LEADERSHIP

Leading the Way

The Leadership Group at Quincy High School consists of students who help with the freshman Career Connections classes. The group teaches freshmen about what it is to be a leader at Quincy High School and, in doing so, guides the freshman toward leadership roles. This year, the participating students attended a leadership camp on Cape Cod and have gone to conferences on leadership.

Celebrating Diversity

Whether reading poetry at the annual Spectrum-hosted Poetry Slam or reading information on activists and leaders for the morning announcements, Spectrum continues its goal of promoting diversity. Spectrum is a group of students and faculty dedicated to fighting social injustices, intolerance and discrimination. This year, the club celebrated National Hispanic American Heritage Month, Gay History Month and Black History Month with an attempt to increase awareness among students.

Song for all seasons

Under the direction of Ms. Stephanie Scanlan, the Quincy High School Chorus has made great strides this year in developing into a professional ensemble. Their annual Winter Concert was a huge success and featured not only the general Concert Chorus, but also the Girl's Choir and the Horizons Choir. The students prepare in class for the concerts and different events in which they are featured. Meanwhile, the chorus members learn about and enjoy many different styles of music.

Issues and events

The student council can be considered the backbone of Quincy High. Representatives of the four classes come together to plan and organize many of the fundraisers and events held throughout the year. Some of this year's seniors' achievements include "I Have a Crush On You," the previous years' Battle-of-the-Bands, a Junior Prom that was said to be "the best prom in over thirty years," and a Senior Prom that will be even better. This strong group of students and leaders meets every Wednesday and Friday morning at 7:15 to put together these important events. In addition to individual class meetings, the entire student council (a combination of all four classes) gathers twice a month for two-hour meetings, where things like the Halloween contest, the Homecoming Dance, fundraisers, open houses, fly-up days, SEMASC and MASC events, and community service are discussed. Although everyone has tons of fun at these exciting and rewarding experiences, it goes without saying that this group must work incredibly hard to accomplish them all.

Core values of caring

The Youth and Government program provides high school students with an opportunity to express their interests in politics. The mission of this YMCA program is to provide a vehicle to teach YMCA core values of caring, honesty, respect and responsibility, character development and leadership skills while practicing dedication to the values of democracy. The program combines YMCAs from all over the state at three pre-legislative meetings held on Saturdays in October, December and January. These meetings prepare the students for the annual weekend conference held at the State House of

Future engineers

Watch out, Gentlemen! These wonderful women are moving on up in this world! The Women in Technology Program at Quincy High, which is part of the Southeast Tech Prep Consortium, gives high school girls the chance to explore their interests in technology. The program hopes to increase the number of women in professional technician and engineering positions, which should lead to furthering their careers and improvement in the quality of their lives. The related areas of study include math, science, and technology. The students work throughout the year in their respective areas, including during the summer at the camp in July and August. Through all their hard work and effort, these girls will soon show the world that women can do just about anything.

WOMEN IN TECHNOLOGY

Deadlines, deadlines, deadlines!

You might think the yearbook is about memories. but to the yearbook staff, deadlines is what the yearbook is all about. Everyone on the yearbook staff worked very hard to meet their deadlines in order to make this yearbook the best one ever. Students learned how stressful working with deadlines can be but they also saw how gratifying it would be when it was finished. Mrs. Ryan and Mr. Looney were there to help us and show us how the yearbook is made. We at the yearbook staff hope you enjoy this year's effort.

Thank an editor

Your yearbook is a product of the efforts of several editors. Courtney Rand took charge of the faculty section. Ngolela Kabongo and Meghann Dennehey led the staff through production of the student sections. Matt MacNeil and Alycia Weiner did a superb job as sports editors. Jen Tan headed up the crew working through the club pages and Christina Diep took charge during production of the events. Ngolela Kabongo, Meaghan Mooney, Alaina Conso, Chrissy Kelley, Zineb Samir, Haley Anderson and Meghann Dennehey put together the collages. We all have Haley Anderson to thank for chasing down ads so that we could afford a few nice extra touches for the book this year. The class of 2003 was fortunate to have such a talented yearbook crew!

Rising Stars

With six wins and four losses the Quincy High football team finally finished in third place in the league. This outstanding record came with a lot of practice and hard work. In the off season the players weight-trained and prepared themselves for a tough season. "From the off season in January until the summer practices in August and throughout the season every senior contributed to the turn-around that this team has taken," Coach Noble stated.

Winning four years against North Quincy High was a big accomplishment that very few can say they have achieved. The seniors this year entered a football team, when they were freshman, with the varsity having a record of 1 and 10. They leave with a winning record of 6 and 4. Coach Noble comments, "These seniors that are leaving have set the grounds for future expectations. Quincy is on an upswing with all levels of our football teams having winning records. I have high expectations for next year."

This year there were twenty-eight seniors. "Every single senior contributed to the program in his own ways this year." Many awards this year were recieved by the best of Quincy High. For the Patriot Ledger All-Scholastics were Shawn Munchbach, Kevin O'Connel, and J.J. Niamkey (junior). For Honorable Mention we had Matt Ramponi represent Quincy. Also for the Atlantic Coast League All-Stars we had Shawn Munchbach, Kevin O'Connel, J.J. Niamkey and Anthony Boyle. With this great season Coach Noble had one thing to say to the seniors as they depart. "No matter what you do, where you go or what you accomplish you will always be a part of the Quincy High Football team."

Golfing Sensation

"At the beginning of the year I thought we would have a chance to get into the tournament with all of the talent that we have on the team," Coach Silvia said. The golf team ended the season with a 2-12 record. "The record does not reflect how well these athletes play because everyone had their good days and their bad ones. Next year we will get them all on the same page at the same time."

This year's golf team had some great players. They competed hard and worked to get to where they are now. "I wouldn't be surprised if ten to fifteen years down the road all of the players will be in golf clubs playing golf because they all loved it and had so much fun this year." Coach

Sylvia was not alone coaching this team; he also had an assistant coach who was always there and helped when ever he could. "Mr. Schatze was a big part of this team and was also competing with the kids at practice to help them improve their skills."

The golf team had their first banquet this year at the Outback Steakhouse, sponsored by the Friends of Quincy Golf. The seniors this year were Joseph Scribi (captain), Francis Orlando (captain), Mark Dondero, Robert McEvoy, and Matthew LaCorte.

All Right You Got It!

It's safe to say that the 2002 Quincy High School Girl's soccer season was a major improvement for the girls. This season proved to be the most rewarding for the seniors. Due to a strong lineup of seniors consisting of Courtney Peterson, Caroline Fields, Liz Campbell, Megan Griffin and Kristen Clarke, the team made great strides, winning two games and tying one, the best season the girls have had in their high school careers. The quad captains of the team, Liz Campbell, Courtney Peterson, Caroline Fields and Kaila Saxe strongly led the team all season.

The team was supported by a strong underclassmen lineup, who will be sure to have a great season next year. Head Coach Don Martin made great changes in the program, teaching the girls new skills and strengthening their positions. The team was short in numbers, causing a lack of substituting players during a game, forcing the girls to play twice as long as normal. The girls produced tremendous effort, pouring their hearts into every game, which made the season fun and worthwhile.

Work and Respect!

This year was all about work and respect for the boy's soccer team. They were out to make the tournament after falling short one game last year. This year the team had many outstanding players such as ACL all stars Bruno Pereira, Washington Morisset, Criag Keenan and Thiago Pereira. Bruno Pereira was named ACL player of the year and led the league in points. This year the Presidents gained a lot of respect as they finished with a record of 10-5-4, their best record in almost 25 years. With this record they were seeded 7th in the tournament for Division 1 Eastern Mass. In their first round game they played last year's Division 1 finalist, B.C. High.

It was a hard fought game and each player gave all he had, but in the end the Presidents lost 3-2. "It was a heart-breaking loss, especially for the seniors on the team," said Senior Captain Matt MacNeil. Coach Kevin Orcutt has turned this program around in two years and had this to say about the players. "They're just a great bunch of kids. They've taken a program that was probably one of the worst in the state and now they are seeded seventh." He added that the returning players have just as much talent and the coach is looking forward to repeating the success of this year's team.

This year is the first year that the Quincy/North Swimming team has had a winning season. All of the girls worked hard to get to where they are. The winning season was due to some of the great feats by the girls of Quincy High. Lynn Gilbody and Captain Erin Griffiths made sectionals in many events and helped the team a great deal.

The coaches this year were Katy Duncan and Chrs Murtaugh. As Captain Erin Griffiths stated, "They led us to or winning season." This year's team should be very proud of their accomplishments. They should enjoy good luck and more victories in the futre!

One Step Closer to Victory

The Quincy High School volleyball team reached the tournament again this season with a 12-6 record and finished second in the Pilgrim Conference at 12-2. Led by six seniors, the Presidents volleyball team captured a moment's win over Dennis-Yarmouth at home. The win not only notched a nine game winning streak but it also put an end to D-Y's forty game league win streak.

Diane Gilbody, Bonnie Hirtle, Nicole Cahill, and Nicole O'Sullivan represented Quincy on the Pilgrim

Conference All-Star team. While Alycia Weiner captured Honorable Mention and Shannon Paine the Sportsmanship Award, senior Diane Gilbody was also named to the Massachusetts Volleyball Coaches Association's second team and all-state team. In addition Diane was named to the Patriot Ledger All-Scholastic Team.

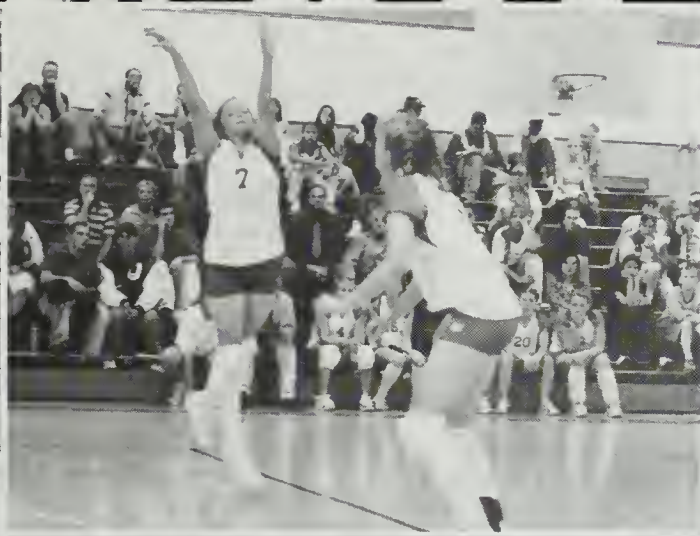

Coach Barrett stated, "the good part of this year was that success came from a solid team effort. No one person stood out. Everyone contributed to our success."

Awesome!

"The girls have exceeded everyone's expectations this year due to a strong sense of teamwork, unselfish play, and a tireless commitment to improving. Captains Shannon Paine and Courtney Rand worked diligently and offered strong leadership to keep the team moving in the right direction," said Coach Jeff Bretsch.

And what a direction they took! All of the hard work certainly paid off because for the first time in twenty years, the Quincy High School girls' basketball team is heading to the tournament. With a 13-5 record in mid-February, the girls must win their next two games in order to secure a home seed in the tournament. The team has a backbone of good help side defense, exemplified by starting forward Shannon Paine. That is coupled with an explosive offense led by the three-point shooting guard duo of Bonnie Hirtle and Sarah Shea along with the powerful center Alysia DiMuzio, averaging 11.1 points per game. This combination makes the team capable of almost anything, especially when the shots fall. This season featured a record-breaking performance by junior Bonnie Hirtle, ranked second in the league for scoring with 21.6 points per game. With three games remaining, Bonnie broke the single season scoring record and is also poised to eclipse her own school record for three-point field goals in a season (31).

Seniors Shannon Paine and Courtney Rand are proud to be at the start of what they hope is a long tradition of winning for Quincy High girls' basketball.

Tournament-bound

Early in this year's season, the Quincy High School boys basketball team set the tone for achievement with a thrilling one point victory over North Quincy. Since then, the team has had their eye on one thing -- the tournament. By mid-February, they had secured their tournament spot with two consecutive victories. The first, in which the boys dominated Sandwich 67-48, and the second, their tenth victory, against Randolph, improved their record to 10-7.

The seven seniors have driven the team and include captain Anthony Boyle, captain Sean Munchbach, captain Kevin O'Connell, captain Matt Ramponi, Craig Keenan, Malcolm Lynn and Mike Quigley. Kevin O'Connell has had an impressive season with an average 17.9 points per game, placing him as third in the league for scoring. The seniors have set an example for the underclassmen to follow in order for them to continue the tradition of success within the program.

Exceeding expectations

After losing most of the players from the varsity team last year, many people were not optimistic about what this year's team would be able to accomplish. Well the Quincy High Hockey team proved once again that they were to be taken seriously. Led by captains Jamie Chicchio, Matt LaCorte, Josh Giordani, and Liam Powers, this year's team achieved an 11-6-1 record. Forwards like Josh Giordani, Mike McKeon, Liam Powers and James Chiochio showed that they were a potent threat to defending goalies. On the other side, Matt Lavery, Matt LaCorte, Brendan Conley, and Keith Flaherty hardly let the puck get by them. With all this talent the Quincy High hockey team made the tournament once again for the fifth year in a row. This success was born of hard work and dedication. These players work year round to maintain the highest level of ability. From working out in the weight room in the off-season to playing in summer leagues, these hockey players are some of the most dedicated players you will see anywhere, and their record shows it.

Another Successful Year

Well for the second year now girls have proved that they can play hockey just as good as the boys. Since it was their first year last year as a team they were only recognized as a Junior Varsity team. This year that all changed as they were recognized as a Varsity team. This year they had a record of 6-6-3. The Quincy High players that participated on this years Quincy/North Quincy team were Jessica Godfrey- Defense, Lindsey Langille- Forward, Stephanie Stone- Forward, Lisa Turowski- Forward, and Marissa Powers- Defense/Forward. The team was coached once again by Laura Prisco. These girls work just as hard as anyone and hopefully they will have even more success in the years to come.

"This season has turned out better than anyone could have anticipated," Senior Dan Coleman smiles. The team this year won the Atlantic Coast League title and also beat North Quincy once again to make it 11 wins for Quincy. The team has had many tournaments and, in mid-February, there were more to come.

In the Red Skin Invitational the team placed fourth with seniors Dan Coleman first in his division, Bao Truong and Jason Moore placing third as well in their respective divisions. In the Lowell Invitational, senior Dan Coleman placed fifth out of 48. In the Weymouth Invitational Dan Coleman placed third and Jason Moore placed sixth. The seniors have done a great job this year and have helped the team be where they are today. The other people who have placed this year have been Yen Truong and Frank McMurrugh.

The Captains this year are Jason Moore and Bao Truong. When asking Bao what wrestling has meant to him he replied, "Wrestling has given me many important values for the past three years. It taught me hardwork, determination, and toughness. Most importantly wrestling, even though it seems like an individual sport it showed me the values of teamwork. When we try to lose weight together for big meets or when we cheer for each other during the match, I know that we care for each other and for the team. Finally, I just wanted to say thanks a lot to our coaches for all their work. These thoughts travel throughout the team and they all appreciate everything that the coaches have done for them."

Starting in April and going until March, these girls work hard. The team starts with try-outs in April and from then on practice two nights a week until they go to summer camp. At the NECA cheer camp our squad received the Best Partner Stunts and an excellent attitude award.

"We lost eight seniors this year and thought it was going to be hard. We have a young team but a good team," Captain Meaghann Dennehy says. They will be involved in competitions starting in February. This year the cheering team has seven seniors. Meghan Dennehy, Megan Davis, Meghan Oldham and Lauren Krueger are captains. "We seem to become closer as a team each year," Meghann Dennehy said. "It's amazing because we started with no coach and just cheering for football and basketball. I can't believe how far we have come." This is the second year of competition for the cheer squad. To prepare for the competitions, the cheerleaders now use the football and basketball games as their practices. Coach Rodriguez and the rest of the team leave the seniors with some words of encouragement. "The underclassman of the varsity and junior varsity teams wish the graduating seniors the best of luck in their future endeavors and will sorely miss their leadership and dedication."

A New Orleans Experience

April 26, 2002 was a memorable night for the class of 2003. The juniors began preparing weeks, months, and for some a full year ahead for this night of dancing and dining with their friends. Hair appointments, finding that special someone to share the night with, and even how they were arriving became the dominant thoughts for many of us.

The Junior Prom Committee started formalizing this special night well in advance. Committee members selected the decorative green, gold, and purple beads that adorned each table. They also chose the chicken parm dinner that we carefully ate, trying not to spill any on our dresses and rented tuxes so very carefully picked out.

The dance floor was packed with colorful dresses and the traditional black tuxedos accented by the exceptional brave ones who wore white. Camera flashes were everywhere as people took pictures to remember this night of fun.

In the end the prom was a tremendous success and the Mardi Gras theme was a hit. Every time we hear Selena's Dreaming of You, it will remind us of the night of friends and fun at the Junior Prom 2003.

After spending so much quality time with each other, we come to rely on one another.

These wonderful people helped to make the three challenging days possible.

Building Community, Character, and Communication

This past summer, over 150 members of the Quincy High School community came together at the 2002 QHS Leadership Camp in Barnstable. The purpose of this annual camp includes developing leadership skills and a strong sense of community pride, learning how to set goals and solve problems, and assisting ninth grade students in becoming an integral part of the high school.

Students and faculty united in this three-day event, working together in small groups with the faculty as counselors to tackle problem-solving and tasks that often took a lot of courage. At the end of the three days, students departed with a new sense of leadership and friendship.

"You'd be surprised how much fun it can be," said Jen Gropp, Student Council President and fourth-year attendant of the camp.

Alex Mendez, president of this year's freshman class, confirms the achievement of one of the camp's goals. "I know more people, I feel less intimidated."

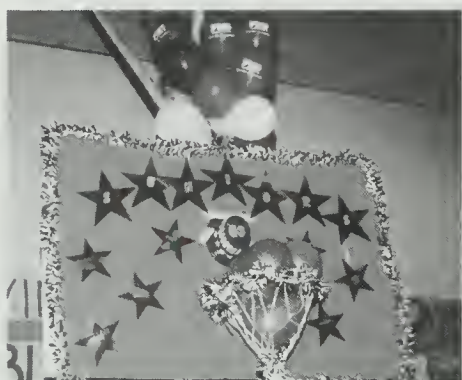

Each year Quincy High's Leadership Camp provides an opportunity for students and faculty to get to know one another, have fun with each other, and appreciate the worthy qualities within the Quincy High community.

Cheering for a star-studded fall sports season

Question: What's the best way to start off the new school year after a long, hot summer vacation? If you are unsure then here are 3 clues to get your mind going.

- (1) All QHS students are present;
- (2) there is a lot of yelling and sometimes dancing;
- (3) the teachers & staff also get in on the fun.

Give up? It's the Fall Sports Rally, of course. The term "standing room only" applies to the CTE gym come September. This is the first rally of the school year. Everyone from the Cheerleaders to the Band are involved. Every fall sports team is recognized in this enthusiastic event. The sports include Football, Swimming, Girl's Volleyball, Golf, Soccer, and the Cheerleaders are also represented. Well, now it's time to march down the field and get ready for another awesome rally in November. See you there!

Our cheerleaders always make this look so easy!

AFJROTC MA-061st

"Huh-rah!"

Welcome Sargeant DeLorenzo to the MA-061st! Thanks for pushing us so hard.

Sargeant DeLorenzo

Thank you, Major, for an awesome Senior year experience!

Major Zinnel

Drill Team

The MA-061st Drill Team represents the corps at competitions held at different schools with ROTC programs. A highly competitive 'sport,' drilling requires much patience, perseverance, and team work. Our team meets almost every morning of the weekday and oftentimes after school too. Movements and commands are practiced until everyone works together at the same exact time. Usually, the annual Fall Encampment serves as a starting point for cadets to learn the movements.

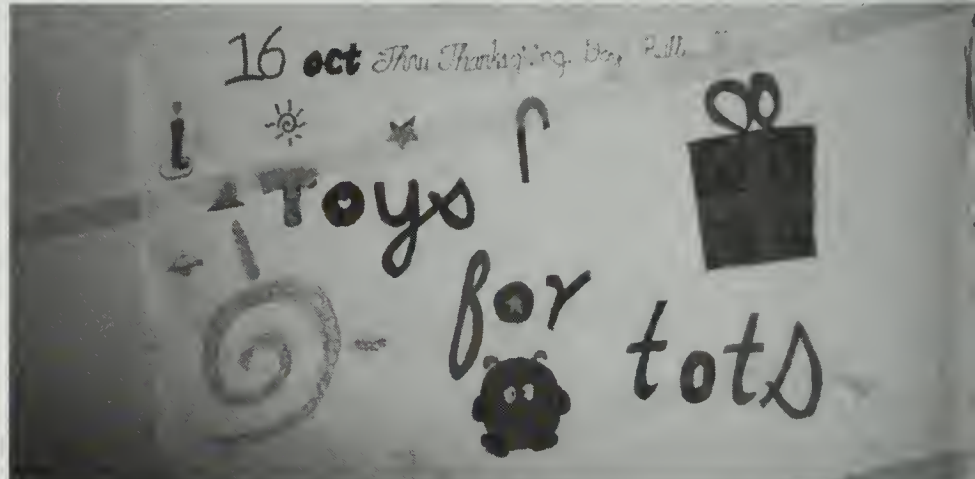

Annual Fall Encampment

The annual Fall Encampment is a much anticipated event that allows cadets in the MA-061st corps to meet each other and kick off the new school year with leadership building and sportsmanship. Occurring in the early Fall, any interested cadets sign up to stay overnight at the Otis Air Force Base. The next three days are filled with physical training, obstacle courses, inspection preparation, drill and movement competition, and of course, kitchen duty and CQ. It's an amazing way to meet friends and develop skills that'll last a lifetime.

Inspection

Uniform wear is an important aspect of being in AFJROTC. Every Thursday, cadets are required to dress accordingly to regulation. The usual attire is Class A uniform wear with service coat. However, ROTC offers flexibility for the fashion-minded with sometimes allowing BDUs and, for the first time ever, the stylishly official AFJROTC MA-061st dark blue polo shirt. Inspections of uniforms are given on a regular basis, and twice a year a group inspection is held in the gym.

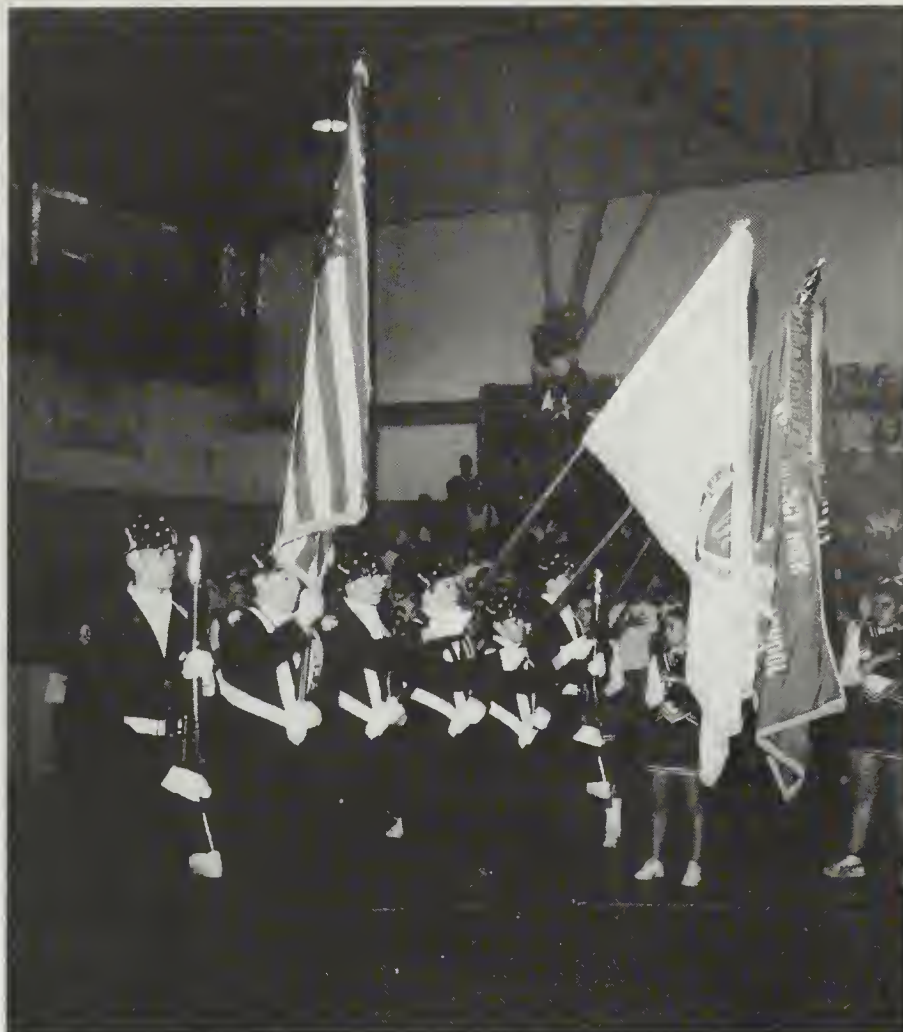

Community Service

The Ma-061st is most known for its participation around the community during different activities. We annually help out with the QHS Open House, the QHS Graduation, and other activities around the school. In the winter we help out at Father Bill's Food Pantry and at Santa's Parachute Dropping. For the first time ever, this year we ran a Toys for Tots Drive against the NQHS corps to see who could donate more to children for the holidays. AFJROTC tries to participate in the community to instill leadership skills for its cadets through volunteerism.

AUTUMN DRAMA PERFORMANCE

The cast and crew of Death By Chocolate.

Would you care for a chocolate, Nurse Hartnett?

Did Could Meadowbrook's own daughter, Sweet Pea, play a part in his death?

John Stone plays detective.

Alfred Mellox tries to make Henry Meadowbrook's murder look like a suicide.

"Don't eat choc..."
Everyone is dying to know what killed Edith Chiles.

Death By Chocolate

September 19, 20, and 21 of 2002 proved to be dangerously delicious. The Drama Club's director, Ms. Stephanie Scanlan, had again taken a new project and turned it into a major success. She arranged the performance of Death by Chocolate as a dinner theater production, another first for Quincy High School. This comedic murder mystery takes place mere hours before the Meadowbrook Health Resort's grand opening under new ownership. Everything seems to be going as planned, until a strange death occurs and needs to be covered up. Throw in an early visitor, a mystery writer and a box of chocolates, and a hunt for the murderer takes twists and turns in every unexpected direction. With senior Jessica Buckley serving as assistant director, performances by seniors Titi Nguyen, Katie Sault, Sara Neumann, Christina Diep, and Kaitlin Lesslie were quite impressive, along with those of juniors Ryan Kirby, Michael Spada, Lindsey Meyers, Brendan Crowley, Samantha Amodeo, and Shaun Gibbons.

The dinner theater experience wasn't complete without the culinary wizardry of The Three Seasons. What was for dessert? Why, chocolate of course!

Margaret Daniels provides another expected twist....will the mystery ever be solved?!

Participants in the B.U. Math Field Day

The beauty of math

The study of higher level mathematics is challenging and difficult. Often struggling students wonder, "Why am I working so hard? Where does this lead?"

Well, there are answers to those questions, and the rewards are worth the hard work--as several students found out on this field trip!

On Tuesday, October 29, 2002, Boston University hosted its eleventh annual Mathematics Field Day for High School Students. This was a fine opportunity for students to experience contemporary mathematics and to get an idea of what some mathematicians do. Professor Robert Devany discusses emerging theories of chaos, fractals and dynamics using computer demonstrations, videos and exquisite graphic images. The students not only attended two lectures, but also took part in hands-on workshops to help them come to an understanding of these topics. They came away from the field trip with an appreciation of the beauty, fun and excitement of contemporary mathematics, as well as information about careers in mathematics.

HALLOWEEN

Participants in the 2002 Halloween Costume Contest

Trick or Treat!

The halls of Quincy High School were filled with a variety of costumes this Halloween. After school, the students and teachers with the best costumes met in the auditorium for the annual costume contest. This year, placing first was Stacey Andrew, placing second was Alicia Cappellano, and placing third was Becky Ferris. In the teacher contest, Mr. Ellis placed first after dazzling the crowd with jedi feats.

Gimme a Q!

The week of November 18 through November 27, 2002 was one to remember. The separate classes challenged one another in Quincy High's annual Pride Week festivities. The contests include the blue and white dress up days, door decorating, hall decorating and of course, the deafening yelling contest. This week gives all students the chance to show off their school pride, and strong school spirit can truly be felt in just breezing through the hallways. Each class certainly did a fabulous job this year, but of course, the seniors came out on top. This was the last Pride Week that the seniors would experience at Quincy High, so they made sure that it ended with a fantastic bang!

Remember all the long, tiring, but fun hours spent preparing for Pride Week and making a mess of Christina's basement?

PRIDE WEEK

Courtney and Matt are quite proud of this football goal post.

Can't you just feel the school pride racing through these sophomores?

Quincy is out for victory!

Pride week came to a close this year with the Thanksgiving Day rally. As usual school spirit was in full force and the students showed what Quincy High Pride is all about.

By the day before Thanksgiving, the gym was decorated and everything was set to go. The band played the school song and the rally was underway. The students were in competition to see who was the loudest and best class this year. The junior class had a big lead in the pride week competition and the seniors surprisingly were at the bottom of the standings. The seniors made a comeback at the rally and it was determined that it was a tie between the juniors and seniors. So to break the tie there was a "yell off" to determine this year's winner. In the end the seniors pulled through and won the week long competition.

The best part of the rally was when Coach Noble came out and talked about the football team. He guaranteed a win and promised he would bring back the trophy for the fourth year in a row. Yet again another great rally and there are many more to come.

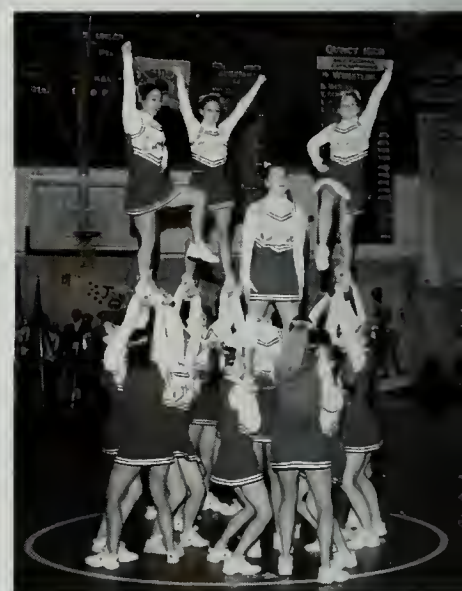

The Seniors await the start of their final rally at Quincy High.

A royal evening

This year's Homecoming Dance was a great success! It took place on the night of Friday, November 22 and had quite a strong turnout. For the class of 2003, the Homecoming Queen was Nicole Fabrizio and the Homecoming King was Joe Scribi. The Homecoming Court included: Courtney Peterson and Steve Ekunseitan in second place, Alaina Conso and Richard Churchill in third place, Megan Griffin and Dennis Hill in fourth place, and Alicia Cappellano and Andrew Picard in fifth place. Congratulations to everyone who was nominated!

These boys are really excited about the dance.

Mrs. Sullivan is overwhelmed by her Homecoming experience!

Celebration

AFJROTC is all about hard work and seriousness--almost. While the corps' cadets do know how to get the job done when it's time to, that doesn't mean they don't know how to have fun too. In fact, ROTC cadets love a good time, especially at the dances held throughout the year by schools in the league. The AFJROTC corps is invited to many dances, from a holiday dance to the Military Ball held in February. Each year, the QHS corps also tries to throw its own party. This year, in collaboration with North Quincy High School's MA-842nd, we held a winter dance at the Quincy Yacht Club. It was a lot of work, but as usual, when the big night came, we all had a blast.

A Christmas Carol

On December 6th and 7th, 2002, the Quincy High School Drama Club presented Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol. This is the story of a miserly old man, Ebenezer Scrooge, who discovers not only the true meaning of Christmas, but also the fellowship of friends and family after being visited on Christmas Eve by three ghosts.

Senior Christopher Bolter starred as Ebenezer Scrooge. Katie Sault, Jason Bedore, and Christopher Jacques brought the play's message forward as the Ghosts of Christmas Past, Present, and Future, respectively. Mike Quigley and Sara Neumann won the crowd's sympathy in their roles of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cratchet. Titi Nguyen played Belle, and other seniors in the show include Meghann Dennehey, Katelyn Leslie, and Courtney Rand. Director Ms. Stephanie Scanlan and Assistant Director Jessica Buckley helped the cast get rave reviews and present entertainment that put their audiences in the holiday mood.

Winter Wonder Land

Less than one week before Christmas and only a day before the students and faculty of Quincy High School went on winter vacation, the school's most vocally talented group of students gathered for the annual Winter Holiday Concert. This year's show included performances by the General Chorus, the Horizon Choir, and, for the first year time in many years, the Girls' Choir. Each group, under the direction of Ms. Stephanie Scanlan, performed a variety of holiday and winter songs. Soloists included senior Virginia Clancy on All I Want for Christmas is You and sophomore Patrick Dunlea on Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas.

Winter Wonder Band

On December 19, 2002, the Quincy High School band performed their annual holiday show. Performances by the Concert Band, Woodwind Ensemble, and Jazz Ensemble put the audience in the mood for the season. The Rock Ensemble presented a style of music usually foreign to Quincy High's holiday concert. Mr. Richard Striano not only directed the instrumental pieces, but also played instruments with the Woodwind and Jazz Sax Ensembles. Also, senior Christopher Jacques helped by conducting Angels We Have Heard on High.

A truly magical event

Sold Out VIII took place on January 8, 2003 in the Lloyd Hill Auditorium. This year's show was a tremendous success! The crowd was overwhelming while the performances were spectacular! Ryan Kirby and Chris Bolter did an impressive job as MCs, and they even managed to include themselves in some of the acts. The faculty advisers were Mr. Jack Scanlan and Ms. Sue Creedon, assisted in directing the show by some of the students.

Sold Out is a variety show sponsored by the Heritage Program. Each member of the program takes part in the show in one way or another, whether doing a dance or bringing in baked goods to sell at intermission. The students perform one show for the school and another for the elderly at 1000 Southern Artery. Everyone has a whole lot of fun at this event, performers and audience alike.

Colleen, Adrian, and Kristen begin the show by beautifully singing the National Anthem.

Yay! Mrs. Walker won the raffle, which turned out to be her own son's guitar!

Pat and Lindsey express their deep emotions for each other in Elephant Love Melody.

SOLD OUT

Chris Walker skillfully strums his guitar.

Chris gets ready to take out the trash...but wait, Ryan is in it!

Ryan sings his little heart out in his incredibly amusing performance of Piano Man.

Sara helps Becky out as she sings and plays the piano with great talent.

These girls really know how to rock!

You can hardly even tell the difference between Dan's voice and that of the Tool singer in Sober.

Chris Jacques sings his solo with quite an amazing voice.

These folks carry out a silent skit as Ryan croons away.

These boys are obviously having a lot of fun as they dance to Teenage Wasteland.

Great thanks to Sold Out's wonderful advisers, Mr. Scanlan and Ms. Creedon!

BASEBALL

Tourney Bound

This year the baseball team continued to improve from past years to achieve one of the goals set at the beginning of the season. The Quincy High Baseball Team finished with a record of 9-9-1 and qualified for the state tournament. This season was filled with highlights and clutch plays. Anthony Boyle got a 9-0 win and a no-hitter against archrival North Quincy High. The season was kept alive by Liam Powers' clutch hitting in the bottom of the 12th against Randolph to score the winning run. What made this team different from years past was that this team never gave up. They always stayed in the game and never lost hope. Although the hitting suffered a little due to using wooden bats, the pitching staff was one of the best in the state. Anthony Boyle and Jamie Chiocchio were elected Atlantic Coast League All Stars this season. Unfortunately Quincy couldn't get past Barnstable in the first round of the tournament, losing 8-3. Regardless of that this is a program that keeps improving and we can look for even better things to come in the years that follow.

SOFTBALL

This year the softball team went to work. Not only did they work hard during the season, they worked endlessly during the offseason. During the offseason the players lifted and practiced every weekend to build off of last year's success. Their hard work paid off. Not only did they beat North Quincy twice but the Quincy High Girls' Softball players were co-champions of the Atlantic Coast League. The team was led by five seniors: Liz Campbell, Diane Gilbody, Jen Gropp, Stacey Andrew, and Shannon Paine. The team had the best team batting average in the Atlantic Coast League and the pitching was outstanding too. Rachel Sorensen led the way for pitching. She threw Quincy High's first no-hitter for softball, struck out over 100 batters, and going into the tournament, had an ERA of about 1.50. All their hard work earned them a 10th seed in the state tournament. These girls have turned the program around and with the talent of the underclassmen this program will continue to soar.

TENNIS

Tennis scholar athletes

The Quincy High School boys' and girls' tennis teams practice together, play together, and, this year, made the tournament together. A strong group of eight seniors, led by captains Priscilla Chan, Lorena Asllanaj, Jirawat Anektanasap and Shaun Guidici, carried the teams through very successful seasons. The girls and league champion boys have advanced the reputation of Quincy tennis through four years of hard work, determination and commitment. The seniors set the standard for the underclassmen by playing all year round and improving in the off-season. Quincy tennis is, without a doubt, a strong program with a strong future. This year's seniors proved that with a little talent and a lot of hard work, success is attainable.

Great end to a great year

"This year's team was great," says Coach Barrett. The team's overall score was 11-5 and 7-3 in the league. With second place in the league they played Weymouth, who was seeded four. They lost but gave it all they could. Gedeon Endeshaw received Boston Globe All-Scholastic and South Alliance League All-Star. Stephen Smith and Erald Sejдини also received South Alliance League All-Star. Kevin Hanlon and Anthony Sandonato received League honorable mention. Matt Lavery came back from recovering from knee surgery in the last few games and received the unsung hero award. With all of these all-stars Quincy High became city champs by defeating North Quincy. Coach Barrett states, "I couldn't have asked for a better group."

Team leaders

The 2003 girl's track team was led by a senior dominating team. This leadership started with captain Ngolela Kabongo, a four year member. Stephanie Fiandaca continued her dominance in the javelin, finishing second in the league and making the all-star team. Other senior members were Meaghan Griffin, Kristine Nelson, Erin Herlihy, Zineb Samir and Meaghan Mooney. Freshman Nicole Kassanoff was the stand out freshman of the year. Coach Franceschini says, "I am extremely proud of this year's seniors and their dedication to Quincy High School. They will be truly missed next year."

The first year for any sport is a tremendous challenge, as the lacrosse team discovered. The team started off slow but picked up its play as the season went on. This was a first year varsity team which combined players from Quincy High and North Quincy

High. There were only three players from Quincy, two juniors and senior Steve Hawko. Hawko played starting defense. There were some close games but unfortunately the team could never seem to quite grasp the win. Steve states, "Good luck next year. I will be back to cheer you on "

★ ANNIE ★

Lights, Camera, Orphans!

It may be a Hard Knock Life for other drama clubs, but not for the QHS ensemble, which performed Annie this year for the spring musical. Starring senior Jessica Buckley in her first lead role, Annie was a huge success due to the excellent cast of characters and technical crew.

★ SPRING CONCERT ★

The Quincy High School Music Department presented its annual spring concert on Thursday, May 22, 2003. For senior band and chorus members, this was not only their last QHS performance, but also the last night of high school; senior signouts took place the following day. Nine senior band members and seventeen senior chorus members graced the stage for their final performance at Quincy High School. Each member brought something unique to the stage, whether it was a solo performance, conducting a number, or simply a solid niche-filling role.

Recipients of the Quincy High Scholarships are proud to be rewarded for their efforts.

Hard work pays

Many seniors looked forward this year to the annual Quincy High School Scholarship Ceremony, hoping that their hard work would help foot the bill for college. One hundred and fourteen seniors recieved scholarships. The Quincy High Scholarship Committee and about fifty community and school representatives made the scholarship presentations. The cumulative amount recieved by students was approximatly $250,000, with awards ranging from $100 to $5,000.

SCHOLARSHIP CEREMONY

Mr. Reardon presents a scholarship to Bao and Liam.

Ilham and Courtney receive the Ambrose Duggan Scholarship.

Mr. Weitzman, who will retire this year after twenty years at QHS, receives a stading ovation from the scholarship recipients.

Stacey gladly smiles after receiving her scholarship.

SENIOR PROM

I Could Not Ask For More

Edwin McCain couldn't have said it any better. The Senior Prom of 2003 was all it has been touted to be for the last twelve years. The women looked beautiful, the men handsome, and the room was decorated elegantly with a color scheme of red roses on white. We the Class of 2003, managed to pull off yet another memorable prom. This year's Senior Prom was held in the exquisite ballroom at the Sheraton Hotel in Braintree. The Prom Committee decided to have a buffet dinner, something new to Quincy High proms, and it turned out to be a tremendous success. In fact, everything about the prom was quite successful. Immediately after the prom, mostly everyone reunited at Senior Night Out and had a blast with all of the activities that were kindly set up there by the Parent Advisory Council. Only at 5 A.M. were people ready to end their "evening" of fun. All in all, the night of May 30, 2003 was a perfect end to the four eventful years we have spent together. "These are the moments I thank God that I'm alive. These are the moments I'll remember all my life. I found all I've waited for, and I could not ask for more."

Valedictorian Priscilla Chan

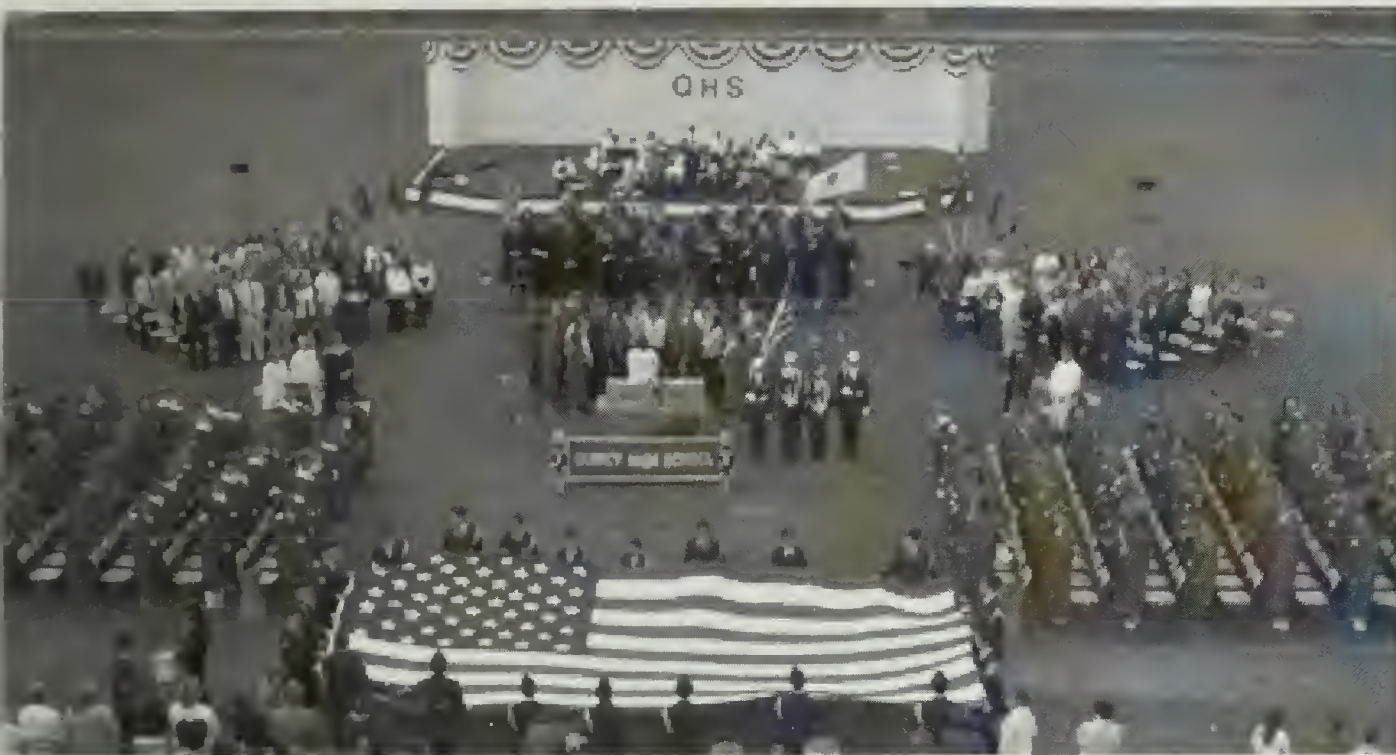

A few weeks ago, I was approached with the task of writing a speech for graduation. I tried to write but all I ran into was writer's block. Then I turned to the ever-useful Bartlett's Familiar Quotations. I looked through the index for different inspirational messages. I sifted through Shakespeare, Plato and Dante in hopes of finding something impressive enough for a graduation speech. Finally, I found that one of my favorite authors had a message that is perfect for today. He wrote: "Congratulations! Today is your day. You're off to great places! You're off and away!"

Dr. Seuss used these words to describe the beginning of a new segment of our individual journeys. Remember, this ceremony is called a commencement because it is a beginning. All that we've learned in our school years just gives us the basics. Our parents and teachers could tell us how much more they've learned from their life after school. In my family, it was my grandmother, who I called Mama, that made me aware of how much we have to learn from going "Off to great places." Nearly every summer she took me on trips to foreign countries, showing me various cultures and a broad range of perspectives. I got to see a world that was very different from what I was used to here in Quincy. When I was six, mama started my real world education with a trip to Europe. The only catch was that Mama, didn't speak English and I didn't speak much Cantonese. Yet, no explanation was truly necessary when we were together. She taught me by example. Traveling in China, I saw that the aging population did not depend on their IRAs or social security. Instead they were taken care of by their children. I realized right away that it was the opposite for me, with mama helping me grow. In a dozen other ways on other trips she helped me see the world through someone else's eyes and I soon found that, I could understand myself a little better. A journey to places entirely foreign may just help to see familiar things more clearly. At times those discoveries challenge the way we do things and the way we think. Mama showed me that I didn't have to change just because someone else saw things differently. She showed me that having differences is normal and that I didn't have to be afraid of the differences in all of us.

Every single person here is different from the next. Of course, if I had paid closer attention to Dr. Seuss, I could have found that we shouldn't give into our fears. He said, "And when you're alone, there's a very good chance you'll meet things that scare you right out of your pants. There are some, down the road between hither and yon that can scare you so much you won't want to go on." After September 11th, the entire country truly doubted the safety of travel. Every one was holding back. Even I questioned the possibility of traveling the next summer. Mama, however was resolute. She would not succumb to the wishes of terrorists. Our experiences and education would not be sacrificed. We ended up touring Korea, Hong Kong, and China. Yet again, Mama taught me another lesson, "Don't let fear alter your identity." Why else have freedom if we can't change our lives to pursue our dreams?

That's not to say that those choices will be easy. Dr. Seuss knew about those times when we just don't feel like going on, when being different just didn't seem worth it, when just going along with the crowd seemed more important than continuing on our own journeys. He wrote this advice for such times. "When you're in a slump, you're not in for much fun. Un-slumping yourself is not easily done." Mama must have felt that way many times. When we traveled, Mama often suffered from arthritis in her knee. It made it increasingly difficult for her to walk at all. However, with either my sister or myself giving her a hand, she would push on every day on some new adventure. Her example made me realize that there are always friends, family, and different resources that you can turn to. We have to trust each other and trust ourselves to pull out of whatever slump we may fall into. We can't let the possibility of an obstacle stop us from taking the journey we're meant to go on.

Dr. Seuss said that in a way that seemed like it was directed to us today as we graduate. He ends his book "Oh the Places You'll Go" by saying: "And will you succeed? Yes! You will indeed! (98 and _percent guaranteed.) KID, YOU'LL MOVE MOUNTAINS! So, be your name Buxbaum or Bixby or Bray or Mordecai Ali van Allen O'Shea you're off to great places! Today is your day! Your mountain is waiting. So get on your way!"

Thank you Dr. Seuss. Thank you mama and thank you Quincy.

Coach Robert Sylvia

A Tribute

The class of 2003 would like to dedicate this yearbook to Coach Robert Sylvia. Coach Sylvia has given 37 years to Quincy High School and intends to retire from his work within the next few years. He has served as the Junior and Senior Class Advisor for the last 25 years. In that position he has been the advisor for the school proms. Coach Sylvia has been a coach for all seasons. He has coached golf since 1969 and hockey since 1965. He has coached varsity baseball for 15 years and junior varsity for eight years. All this in addition to instructing physical education. Coach Sylvia has maintained many very important roles here at Quincy High School, and we will miss him dearly. Thank you for everything, Coach Syl!
